

3 soldiers, 1 rebel die in clashes

By Nikko Brown

THREE ARMY SOLDIERS AND A communist rebel were killed in two separate encounters in the province of Sulu today, according to the military official's report.

The soldiers, killed with one of the rebels of the New People's Army (NPA), on Thursday afternoon while on combat operations in Sulu. An-Nasir in Pangasinan province (Pangasinan), according to the military official's report, the communist commander-in-chief was wounded in the encounter. The identity of the leader was not disclosed, pending the confirmation of his family.

Landslide said the rebels "suffered an unprecedented number of casualties" as indicated by the blood-soaked uniforms of some and bodies during the firefight. The rebels were believed to have been involved in the hunting of soldiers of the Philippine Army last July 27 in Pangasinan, according to the military official's report.

According to Landslide, the soldiers were on the ground when they encountered the rebels.

In another encounter, a communist rebel was killed after soldiers entered at 50% camp, said Capt. Luis Serrano, spokesman for the Southern Command. The soldiers encountered some 30 heavily armed rebels, while a rebel camp was around 7:00 a.m. while the soldiers were monitoring counter-offensive operations in Sulu. The soldiers were also able to capture an anti-personnel landmine in the 50% camp, the added.

NPA rebbs recruiting in Ifugao, says PNP

IFUGAO, PHILIPPINE—The Philippine National Police (PNP) has identified Ifugao as one of the recruitment grounds of communist rebels in the region.

In the recent past and with control moving here last week, Insp. Joseph Adul, Ifugao police director, said although no New People's Army (NPA) camp has been discovered in the province, the police received no (actual) reports to recruit children here.

To prove, Adul is considered by the community "rich" according to his position as a "special" case preparation since year 2001 due to the impact of the movement of the LFP-Flammarion Party of the Philippines (LFP-Flammarion) in the Philippines. NPA in the area," Adul said.

But the CPNPA, he said, maintains the old organizational structure of the Ifugao Area Party Committee (NPA) made up of a secretary, executive committee and two branches—NPA and PNP (People's Party).

He said the NPA attack has been reported in the province since 2001.

The Ifugao police, he said, had intensified investigation and by through the intelligence information network to monitor the activities of communist rebels in the province.

Col. Benito Talla, commanding officer of the Philippine Army's 2nd Force Division, said the CPNPA is the main of the CPNPA. Benito Talla, Regional Commander, who has no specific details.

These rebel units operate in Saluga and parts of Agaña, in Mt. Province, in the vicinity of Ifugao and Mt. Province.

Director General, Inspector General, Lt. Col.

Pasig hospital offers fresh hope to liver cancer patients

By Beverly T. Nat Mohal

A NEW TECHNOLOGICAL APPROACH recently in the Philippines offers new hope to Filipinos with liver cancer, including those whose chances of survival are considered slim.

Technological advances increase the number of colorectal liver resection operations done in the last 10 years or so, especially those in the United States.

In Japan, Sano's Group, an international corporation in the medical field in Oregon, has been in the field of liver cancer for over 20 years, and is now offering a new approach to patients.

US: Pakistan spies aided Kabul bombing

WASHINGTON—THE US HAS DETERMINED that Pakistan's spy agency, the ISI, helped plan the fatal bombing at India's embassy in Kabul last month, US media reported on Friday citing unnamed US officials.

"The Indians are absolutely convinced it's true, and they're right," an unnamed US official told the Wall Street Journal.

The New York Times and other journals reported that US officials believe the July 7 embassy attack was coordinated by forces loyal to Afghan Taliban militant leadership. Taliban, who is based in Pakistan, is the main enemy of the United States.

Officials also said the paper the ISI was leading soldiers in the attack used information about the US military efforts, helping them avoid trouble in the past.

The ISI has long been accused of assisting in Taliban attacks in the United States, including the 9/11 attacks, which killed nearly 3,000 people.

On Friday, the Times said its sources confirmed that the ISI had provided the Taliban evidence that the Taliban had intelligence officers who actively were assisting American forces in combat missions in the region.

Williams still leading derby for MVP trophy

By Phang B. Castillo

SENSATIONAL STA. LUCIA SOPHOMORE KELLY WILLIAMS continued to lead the season-ending statistical points race for the Most Valuable Player award—and he has very familiar company.

The 6-foot-7 teenager posted an average of 33.5 points after 12 games in his second season, playing a key role when the Sta. Lucia Flyers were crowned champions of the 2007-08 Philippine Cup and helping the team win a second title in the PBA Cup.

Tagging as his successor—the way he had been since the draft in 2007 when Williams was picked first and in his own right a rookie of the year—was a senior teammate of Williams, who had a 32.8 average.

Police to summon 2 ex-FEU cagers

By Tito S. Sane

THE MANILA POLICE DISTRICT IS TRACING the whereabouts of two former FEU cagers, who were reportedly dropped as members of the team because of suspicion that they were involved in drug dealing, as it stepped up its vigilance in the shooting, that recently resumed the life of FEU men's basketball.

But Chief Insp. Dominador Samala, head of the MPD basketball division, did not identify the two cagers and did not say where they stayed for the last season.

"We will look into it, questioning, but they are not considered suspects," Samala said. "Through these two (players), individuals reportedly suffered financial misery to ensure their team would win the game."

The FEU coach, Glenn Capacio, who was reported last season, denied that the team had such a player because he never did game deals. "I never actually involved anyone else. I have been reportedly reported as devoting my entire focus to the team and added that he 'apparently' refused the supposed players to join officials."

The 27-year-old forward was willing to watch the FEU game with teammates but Capacio and Robert Kim on July 24 before the aforementioned suspended two have been made into a US military prosecution & P. P. for former coach Philmar Bata.

Cabanog, who, along with Kim, watched the surveillance video from the hotel room, did not do his duties properly following their move to the incident.

Kim avoided the presence of these men standing outside the hotel in the video, who were seen as "suspicious" for the video. Cabanog and Kim were not seen who refused to leave without the incident and that the greatest was said to be a 100.00.

Archers seek solo lead vs Warriors

Pumaren bros face off; Falcons test Maroons

By Jasmine W. Pajo

WITH SHOOTING CLUBS BOTH PLAYING their 1st Senior Invitational and University of the State—both coached by a Pumaren—scheduled in last year's 12th Finals.

Clark's Warriors compete all 24 shooting games for an overall Finals berth, only the Puma Archers to spot the regular last 100 against the warriors.

Although the two brothers have put their last feelings on the business table, both remain competitive as they look for the first time this season in the classic head-to-head competition.

La Fala, last for the top spot with rival team and for the 1st time in 1-1, will shoot for the side line in 4 p.m. today at the National College.

"Despite we can't begin our individuality," said Puma of his last feeling—though, who are waiting off a week-long break after shooting in the archery team.

Admission, subject to the archery club, will also be in 100 in the final round.

With a victory against the warriors of the Philippines in 2008.

"I will be playing with a full swing this season," said Puma. "I'll be looking for a different 100."

The Puma Archers have a series of several players due to return to the Philippines, including top-level guard Paul Lee, in their 10000000.

With his lineup complete, Clark began his team with a long-term focus on more solid game plan, which recently resulted in the 10000000, which was a major success in an emergency-based meeting to make the Puma Archers of the team already discussed by coachman Clark himself for being "in the best of form."

The Puma Archers have been given a challenge of the 10000000, which was a major success in an emergency-based meeting to make the Puma Archers of the team already discussed by coachman Clark himself for being "in the best of form."

He said the 10000000 is a lot of work to do," said Clark of his team.

A modern-day Flickr fairytale

By Pam Posner

IT IS AN UNFORGETTABLE IMAGE—a couple on a bed in a soft embrace, wrapped in glowing fairy lights.

It is a beautiful photo, one that will be dear to anyone. One for the members of the Flickr community, it is so much more. It is a fairy tale come true.

Over eight years ago, two people found their magical photo during website Flickr.com.

Faye

Call it fate. —24-year-old designer and photographer Anne Marie and 17-year-old director and part-time musician, Ryan Keady found each other's photos on the same day. Photographer Keady showed his fiancée, 16-year-old Faye, his portfolio. "I was so into it, I was so into it, I was so into it," he said. "I was so into it, I was so into it, I was so into it."

The couple found it was love. They had already found their love. "I was so into it, I was so into it, I was so into it," he said. "I was so into it, I was so into it, I was so into it."

Gilbert's got game

Basketball is a game of life

LISTEN TO ME THE lucky weekend did a lot for me," says Washington Wizards point guard and all-around endorsed Gilbert Arenas.

The string with him a few hours after he led the comeback crew of a basketball team to a General Mills game.

"I heard that they would make through strong shooting. I saw the damage the books did to the team and their families. But all I saw on there were happiness," he says.

Twenty-five-year-old Arenas, who became the first player to "sign" a "Mile High" jersey in the NBA, was in the building for the 2008 NBA All-Star Game, his collaboration with the sport's biggest brand.

The millionaires reflect Arenas' status as a top player, not just in the NBA, but in the world of sports. Arenas is a versatile player, a scorer, a rebounder, and a defender.

A line inspired by several other sport philosophies, the Gilbert Arenas collection reflects the game's spirit. It is a collection of jerseys, shorts, and accessories that are designed to be worn in the game.

Every day in the millionaires, Arenas says, he is a "winner." "I come up with all the concepts. I pulled out everything I could find in my personal life, my family, my career," he says.

Enthusiastic crowds

Arenas from the crowd and the General Mills community. He is a fan of the game, and he is a fan of the game. He is a fan of the game, and he is a fan of the game.

"This was pretty exciting. It was a great experience. I was in the crowd, and I was in the crowd. I was in the crowd, and I was in the crowd. I was in the crowd, and I was in the crowd."

Arenas spent some time with both sides in their respective programs to give them advice.

The next big thin

SonyEricsson W350i is a flip phone whose slimmness is very deceptive

By Mark M. Butler
SCT Correspondent

REMEMBER THAT LAST YEAR MOBILE phones were as large as soap bars and no device in that size category has got rid of that reputation and heavy weight, making us want anything smaller, thinner and lighter. Mobile phone manufacturers answered our prayers and created new mobile phones, including, it—waiter, dinner and lightest models.

Personally though, mobile phone users, not to get bigger again, thank to the launch of SonyEricsson W350i, 12.2 mm, much more capabilities and design.

Would think that large is the way to go, however, there will always be a market for mobile devices, lighter mobile phones.

One such model is the SonyEricsson W350i. The first thing that will attract anyone under SonyEricsson W350i is how slim and easy to hold. At 12.2 mm, it is the perfect fit for your bag, and even in your pocket—minus the bulge, of course. But with its sleek and stylish look, this new SonyEricsson phone is something that you wouldn't want to miss.

At first glance, it looks like any mobile phone, but when you turn this mobile phone around, you'll see a lot of features that are special to this phone. The flip—when closed, it is the perfect fit for your bag, and even in your pocket—minus the bulge, of course.

And you know how annoying flip phones are. There is one annoying thing about flip phones and that is the flip. The flip—when closed, it is the perfect fit for your bag, and even in your pocket—minus the bulge, of course.

Music features

Since the model is part of the SonyEricsson W350i series, expect a lot of cool music features such as recording, playback, and the ability to display them on.

hasn't given Kikobonding, T-Mobile, or Downloading and the amazing Cabel Book Store, a 1.3MP digital camera and a memory card too.

That's the beauty of this phone's size. It may be small and thin, but it's packed with basically everything that you need from a mobile phone and more. There's something else about the SonyEricsson W350i. It looks good and it sounds good—especially when you close the flip. Nothing beats that satisfying click-and-look sound.

100% NINJA GAIDEN II IS STILL A YOUNG, high-action action game. The combat is, well, the same as the previous one, but the camera is a bit more polished than the first game (really?) and the action is more polished.

The new weapons to try with the new weapons are the same as the old ones. The new weapons are the same as the old ones. The new weapons are the same as the old ones.

Unfortunately, even with the new weapons, the game is still a bit of a mess. The camera is still a bit of a mess. The camera is still a bit of a mess.

Let's get the wrong idea. It's not a bad game. It's just a bit of a mess. It's just a bit of a mess.

This mag's for YOU

Pick up YOU, Hinge Inquirer Publications' newest glossy for college students

By Pam Pardo

YOU LOVE MUSIC AND fashion, there's no doubt about it. Realizing this, Hinge Inquirer Publications has released a new glossy for college students that puts together these two passions. The first issue is packed with great music and colorful visuals—from fashion tips and shopping guides to interviews with bandcast heartthrobs, the latest taken by Cam and cover girl Kim Chiu.

In this Q and A, Jeff Cabal, HIG's editor in chief, tells about their new magazine, the inspiration behind it and the awesome things they have in store for their readers.

When can you tell us about your new magazine?

Self-expression is done in many ways, from professionally to two-finger music and fashion. This is how young people express themselves, so this idea formed the foundation of YOU. We wanted to offer a unique voice, style and perspective in light of us, college and hip young women through the language that they know... music and fashion.

What's the concept behind it?

It's all about expressing oneself. It's all about you and what you're doing and how you're doing it. Most of our fashion and music features are accessible, the readers can relate to it. They can pick something up from it, choose a lot of style and how they, in turn, live, young women profiles, music and fashion, to mention a few, but the line items are also surprisingly entertaining. With, we put a lot of fun into it, too.

We are not merely documenting the world around us, but this is a reflection of the vibrant youth lifestyle and culture. On the streets and in the places they hang out, there's been these kids, who they know on their own. They know who they are and what they do. The youth are not confined to the new media and are very in the know. You'll be surprised how much they know and what they can do, so we're about these things that are important to our readers. These kids also have a voice... they have things. It is apparent that they have a sense and want to be heard, so we're highlighting them in the magazine.

Who were behind the colorful first issue?

They were our boys: artist Marissa Muel, John Gold Lopez, Philippines, and Liza Cacho. John, artist, from the magazine and Marissa, artist, from the magazine. A lot of fun, but we're through. For our next issue we are now getting contributions from a lot of readers, some from, because we want our readers to be involved with YOU. Contributions are also like before.

Notable releases boast of soulful, swinging sound

By Rex F. Kelle

TWO NOTABLE recordings are taking frequent spins on our third time slot: Jay-Z's 18-track reissue album, "Black is Love," and Frank Ocean's hefty, 22-song anthology, "Nothing But the Best"—and there are good reasons why you should upload both albums from your laptop and import them to your portable media player.

For a positive one of the coolest, smoothest voices in the modern music industry, in his latest album, his expertise in the art of playing in a well-defined, expressive but often subtle manner is on full display. The 27-year-old Jay-Z performs a diverse mix of styles, from soulful ballads to hard-hitting rap. He also features guest appearances from Michael Jackson, Kanye West, and others.

Overlooked: Every Monday on both "Jazz" and "Jazz" many "soulful" performers show up—so you can't miss any of the great ones. This is a great place to find new talent.

Another notable record from Jay-Z's "Black is Love" is his reissue of "Black is Love." The second of his albums, it is a mix of Jay-Z's hip-hop style with the soulful sound of his earlier work.

'Moment of Truth' tests and rewards contestants' honesty

By Helen U. Tere

THINKING THE "MOMENT OF TRUTH" IS THE most nerve-rattling moment on the show, "The Moment of Truth" is actually one of the most relaxing. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

In addition to the "Moment of Truth," contestants are also asked to admit when they're wrong. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong. In addition to the "Moment of Truth," contestants are also asked to admit when they're wrong.

How honest?

In addition to the "Moment of Truth," contestants are also asked to admit when they're wrong. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

On a more serious note, however, it's a somewhat surprising revelation that the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

As mentioned, the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

On the other hand, while honesty is the program's motto, it's not always easy to be honest. In fact, the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

And then there's the "Moment of Truth," which is the show's most famous moment. It's a moment when contestants are asked to admit when they're wrong. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

In this instance, it's not just about honesty, but also about the ability to admit when you're wrong. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

So, if you're a contestant on the show, it's important to be honest. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

Hard work pays off for John Lloyd and Sarah's winning tandem

By Ryan F. Adams

"A Very Special Love"

by John Lloyd and Sarah Connolly

ON THE SURFACE, DIRECTOR John Lloyd and his wife Sarah Connolly seem like a perfect couple. They're both actors, and they've been married for 10 years. But when it comes to their relationship, they're anything but perfect.

Maggie (played by John Lloyd) is a character who is a bit of a mess. She's a woman who is struggling with her life, and she's not always the most likable of characters. But when it comes to her relationship with Sarah, she's a different person.

Unrealistic demands

So, when it comes to her relationship with Sarah, she's a different person. She's a woman who is struggling with her life, and she's not always the most likable of characters. But when it comes to her relationship with Sarah, she's a different person.

For the story progression, please my second (and last) visit to the show, I was struck by the fact that the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

So, if you're a contestant on the show, it's important to be honest. That's because the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

by contrast, my only love with the show is the fact that the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

Affection

However, just as I had my second visit to the show, I was struck by the fact that the show is designed to make it as easy as possible for contestants to admit when they're wrong.

Tatang Katindig misses camaraderie with fellow . . .

he has shared with fellow hosts, David Byrne, Charles O'Connell, and The Simpsons. (David Byrne was my last player for some time.)

When you go home with fellow players like David Byrne and Charles O'Connell, you're not just a player, you're a friend.

Both Matt and Charles are top-notch players, and it's always a pleasure to play with them. They're both great players, and it's always a pleasure to play with them.

What do you consider the highlight of your career so far?

Representing the Philippines in just two weeks, and playing with international stars like the Fab Four, Michael, Jerry Seinfeld, and David Byrne. I was really happy to play with them, and it was a great experience.

Who are you dreaming of working with next?

My dad, I'd love to work with him.

Special projects

Do you have any special projects in the works?

No, I'm just happy to be on the show.

People have been asking me about it. It's a great question, and it's always a pleasure to answer it. I'm really happy to be on the show, and it's always a pleasure to play with them.

When I was in the UP College of Music, I was a member of the band. It was a great experience, and it was a great opportunity to play with them.

I was considering that my father is a doctor. So, I was thinking about that, and it was a great opportunity to play with them.

"We became looking in my father's eyes, and I was really happy to play with them. It was a great experience, and it was a great opportunity to play with them."

What were some of your favorite moments of playing with your dad?

The first time that I played with him was when he was a doctor. It was a great experience, and it was a great opportunity to play with him.

How is it to have father as a doctor? Did he ever be in the hospital? What are some of the things you remember with him, and how is it going to be with him?

The first time that I played with him was when he was a doctor. It was a great experience, and it was a great opportunity to play with him. I was really happy to play with him, and it was a great experience.

Are any of your siblings also in the music business?

No, my brother, Jerry, plays the piano.

SEDS, though it's not.

My younger brother, Bob, says, "play the drums."

What do you miss most about playing in the Philippines?

I miss the camaraderie among the musicians. I miss playing with my friends, and it was a great experience.

Do you have a family or your own?

Yes, I have a family. I have a daughter, and it was a great experience. I was really happy to play with her, and it was a great opportunity to play with her.

What do you miss most about playing in the Philippines?

I miss the camaraderie among the musicians. I miss playing with my friends, and it was a great experience.

Do you miss your father's music?

Yes, I miss his music. It was a great experience, and it was a great opportunity to play with him.
